Justin Gusaas, Erica Martin, Kassendra Glynn, Helen Biggs, Lacey Markhart, and Nate Ketterling get a little wild 'n crazy on Hippie Day during homecoming week.

Cardinal fans rush out on the field to cheer on Thor Sand before the homecoming football game.

Senior girls' basketball player Sarah Kaiser attempts to regain her position against her L-M-M opponent.

Kristi Hafey and Stacy Retzlaff share in a good-humored joke in Advanced Biology on Pajama Day.

Mrs. Petersen's eighth grade Family Consumer Science class teaches Jeremy Retzlaff a lesson in sewing.

Just a Touch of Attitude

Our attitudes are reflected through our everyday lives at EHS . . . as we cheer on our teams, play in the band, sing out loud, participate in a variety of student activities and academics, or just hang out with our friends.

All of these are accomplished with JUST A TOUCH OF A - T - T - I - U - D - E.

Just a Touch of 'Togetherness'

The junior class seems to have a peculiar feature: most of them share the same goals, expectations and plans for the future.

The main goal of most of the students is to pass classes. Some of them have specific classes such as Algebra II and Chemistry, which are considered to be the most difficult ones.

"My goal is to pass Chemistry!" said Will Kronberg. "And mine is to pass Algebra II," completed

Ross Young.

The junior year is also time to start planning for the future. College appears to be the destiny of all with NDSU at Fargo and UND at Grand Forks as favorite choices.

Now, what do most of the juniors expect for the last two years of school? To become a senior! This may sound obvious, but most of them only want to have fun. After all, high school only happens once in our lifetime.

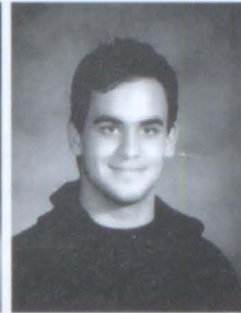

Master of Ceremonies Brent Hardy asks, "Why did the chicken cross the road?", as he tells yet another chicken joke during the dinner theater.

Just a Touch of 'Uniqueness'

The class of 2003 believed that if they could pick three words to describe themselves as a class, they would be: energetic, unique, and athletic.

Nichole Furman chose 'unique' because, "Everyone has a totally different attitude."

However, although everyone in this class is very diversified, many of them took their winning attitudes and used them to participate in athletics. "Almost our whole class is in at least one athletic activity," said Amber Smith.

Matt Arnold's biggest goal this year was to, "do good in wrestling."

Duston Hagen showed that he is energetic when he said, "I live life the way I want. Life's short; live it while it lasts."

In the sophomore class there was never a dull moment.

The freshman class has set high goals at the beginning of their high school careers.

Jessinda Remmick's goal for this year is to,

"Do good in school and basically just have fun."

This class also believes they are very independent. Kayla Peldo stated, "Our class strives for what we believe in."

The freshman class also has a lot of spirit. Laura Walsh pointed this out by saying, "Lots of people in our class have a lot of energy and they try to be positive."

This class is ready for anything to come the way.

Just a Touch of 'Friendship'

The class of 2005 has a unique attitude that separates them from the rest of EHS. They all seem to get along very well and like to talk all of the time.

They consider themselves funny, smart, and like to have fun.

Keri Hernandez commented, "I like my classmates and they make me laugh all the time."

Everyone is always happy and in a good mood," Dana Schlosser remarks.

Allison Mattheis thinks, "Boys are crazy!"

Over the past year the most memorable event to them was the football team doing well in the playoffs and the girls' basketball team going to the regionals.

The goals for the class of 2005 are to get good grades, spend as much time with their classmates as possible and to do good in Mr. Masset's English class.

Cody Fuller thinks he is very unique from other students because, "I am short and very, very, very, very, very, very, very energetic."

As you can see, this class has a fun-loving attitude and "That is what we are," Dylan Brokaw speaks out.

During Red Ribbon week, Melissa Arnold becomes a statistic of a drunk driver on Ghost - out day and must remain silent.

Just a Touch of the Beginning

As the newest class of the high school, the seventh graders have settled in quite easily by keeping busy in schoolwork and activities. They describe themselves as a fun, happy, but sometimes a moody group.

They are learning a lot of new and exciting things and as Whitney Martin said, "Trying to stay out of people's way (if possible)."

They have several goals to try to live up to, such as getting on the honor roll, having straight A's and passing the seventh grade. Many of them have achieved their goal of getting on the honor roll.

Some of the most memorable moments of their life in the big kids' building were the homecoming dance and being able to go out for junior high sports. They really enjoy being out of elementary as they feel older and more responsible in junior high.

Some of them are hoping the year 2006 will roll around fast, but others just want to try to have a good time until they graduate.

EHS: Just a Touch of Change

Showing enthusiasm, Vibeke Lillevold, is interviewed by yearbook staff members.

After the dinner theater, Nicole Marks, prepares to take a bow.

Three foreign exchange students, Felipe Mendes, Nicole Marks, and Vibeke Lillevold, were welcomed to EHS this fall.

All of them shared a common feeling that Ellendale is a nice town. It is fun, everyone knows each other, and it is easy to make friends here.

Felipe is a 16 year-old junior from Campinas, Brazil. He has made several changes since he arrived. In Brazil, he was the oldest child, but here he felt like a twin as he stayed with Pat and Allan Glynn and their 16 year-old son, Kyle. He enjoys reading books and watching any movies but romance.

Sixteen-year-old Vibeke comes from Oslo, Norway and likes Ellendale because everyone is nice. She comes from a small family, so staying with the Jay and Kim Fuller family was quite a change for her. Vibeke returned to Norway after the first semester.

Nicole is also a 16 year-old junior, and she comes to us from Victoria, Australia. She came because her older sister visited the United States for a couple of weeks and said that it was exciting and fun. Some changes for her were driving on the other side of the road and the toilet flushing the opposite direction. The foods she liked most were fry bread and the caramel malts at the Twist Cone in Aberdeen. Nicole stayed with the Al and Julie Kappenman family and returned at the end of first semester as she had been here since January of 2000.

All three of the exchange students agreed that the friends they have made will be missed the most when they return to their home countries.

Inquisitive Attitude Gains National Attention

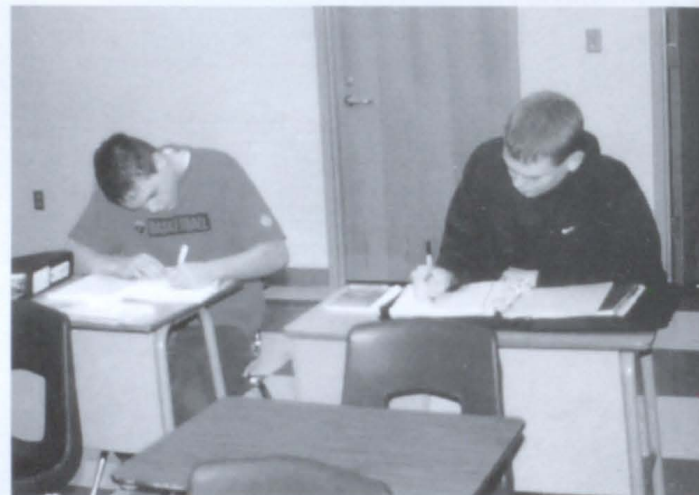

Senior Jordan Sand gained national recognition in November when he was awarded The Invention Apprenticeship Award from MIT in Boston for his sophomore science fair project "Rumpelstilskin Project: Can Straw Make Paper?"

Jordan received much media attention from North Dakota newspapers and television, the Internet, and the Paul Harvey radio show.

When asked if he was surprised by his accomplishment, he remarked, "No, I'm never surprised by anything I do."

Jordan plans to spend three weeks in California during the summer of 2001 studying more about his project with a senior scientist. He also plans to attend college and continue to study in the field of science.

Student Life

Homecoming 2000 Through Our Eyes

During homecoming week a touch of attitude spread throughout the hallways of Ellendale High School. The week of September fifth was full of exciting activities to pump up the football team and the girls' basketball team.

Tuesday, the first day, flashed back to the 60's. Sparkling headbands, bright beads, bellbottom pants and tie-dye T-shirts were popular attire. Several students and teachers showed their school spirit by participating in this event.

Wednesday's theme was pajama day. Many students and faculty of EHS came to school as if they had just climbed out of their beds.

Thursday was dress up and picture day. Coronation also took place with entertainment by the choir and a solo from Tiffany Schaefer. We were also entertained by the mock coronation, which the seniors won in a close race with the sophomores. The audience held its breath as we waited to see who would be crowned king and queen. As Megan Glynn and Thor Sand were announced, a loud cheer came from the crowd. Thursday evening the girls' basketball team played L-M-M and won, 36-30. The homecoming candidates were introduced during half-time.

Friday had many events. Students and faculty members were decked out in school colors for red and black day. At the pep rally the students of EHS got fired up for the big football game against the Fairmont-Cambell-Tintah Rebels. Spirits were high after the game ended in a 30-0 victory for the Ellendale Cardinals. A dance capped off the night.

"Homecoming was a lot of fun and a great display of school spirit," said Sue Wall.

Thor Sand escorts Megan Glynn to the stage where they will wait to be crowned the 2000 Homecoming King and Queen.

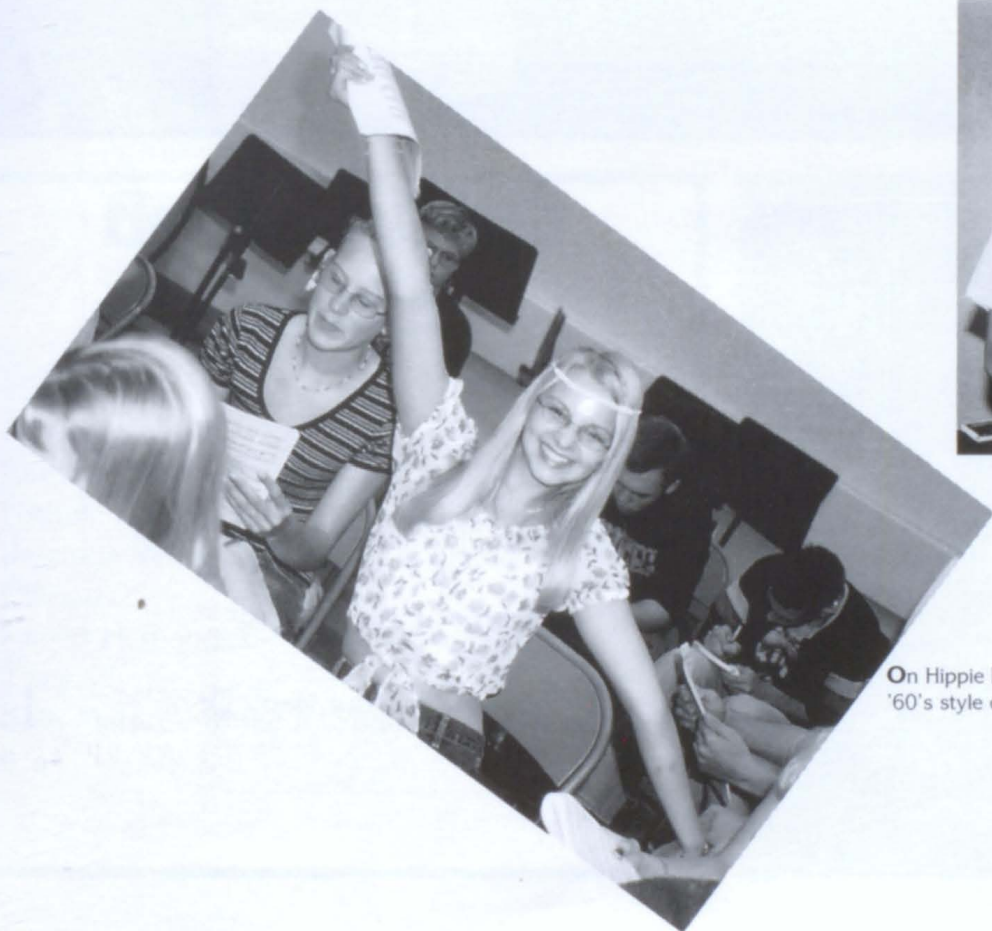

During the pep rally, students, players, and cheerleaders take part in the doughnut contest.

The Time of Our Life

By: Cassy Gayman

The senior class of '01" is quite a class for sure. Together we made a very long and tough journey; it was a difficult tour. We were a class of different tastes; we had a mind of our own. It seems like yesterday when we were on the playground; the time sure has flown.

Bobbe was a Wrangler man; his pants were always tight, But when it came to accidents, we're surprised he never saw the light.

Blake was very quick; football was his game, He had a lot of family; they take a while to name.

David's hair was curly; he had quite a fro. Out of all of us, he was an ordinary Joe.

Cassy loved animals, especially her cat and horse. When it came to soap operas, she was a reliable source.

Megan was well known by the community as the pretty smart and tall one.

Little did her parents know, she was far from being a nun!

Sarah has many goals; she hopes to be a dietitian. She always did her homework; she had the most ambition.

Jessica played basketball; she was the teacher's pet. No matter where she went, she was never without Brett.

Michelle enjoyed helping others, especially the girls' basketball team.

She loved to bake and teaching was her dream.

Colette was very vocal;

her jokes were always funny. She's going into medicine and hopes to make a lot of money.

Jerrod has always played sports, ever since he was in Pampers. When it comes to his rhino, no one better tamper!!

Lacey always traveled; she has been to many places. She was a strong church-goer

When he tried to wrestle barbwire, he didn't come out so fair!

Sheena was tough gal, and was always in the water. Trouble was her middle name; we're glad she's not our daughter!

Chad drank a lot of coffee, and his boots were always dirty. He was always playing in concrete, when the time was right to tell

Dean was very defensive; he always had a gun. When working at the Boyd Ranch, the guys always made it fun.

Jordan loved to argue, he always tried to debate. After a meal, there was never anything on his plate.

Thor was always late for school because he tended to his cow! When it came to weekend entertainment, he can take a bow!!

Steve was the King, according to the Payne boys. He was always into current events; they were like his toys.

Meshell had a unique fashion, blue and orange were the color of her hair. She was pretty wild; she always took a dare.

Ryan likes the '70's; the Beatles were his band. When we were hungry for steak, he's our number one man!!

Josh made weekends fun; his house is very famous. We hope he hides from law, cause who would take care of Amos!!

Justina was the first to get a tattoo; it was of a tree frog. She had a car, but she'd be better off to jog.

Now our time in high school is all but a phase. Now we'll get diplomas, and go our separate ways.

Class of 2001

and always met friendly faces.

Cory's team was NDSU; the Bison were number one. When the game warden was near, he was always on the run!

Greg was a nice looking guy, though he had a lot of hair.

and at the days, he wasn't very purty.

Christy was a farmer; she had a lot of buffalo. She and Cory had a run in, and her car took quite a blow.

Kayla was the new girl, but she fit in very well. She always spoke her piece Senior Jordan Sand sings during his last high school KELOVE concert.

Taking center stage, Justin Gusaas sings his state qualifying solo at the spring concert.

EHS chorus students broke a school record this year by bringing home thirty-nine medals from state participation.

Choral director Wayne Fiechtner stated, "This group of students are hard-working, talented, creative, and positive. They are also a group that is serious and know when not to goof around. This class is ready and not scared of any challenge to improve their singing."

Only four seniors are lost through graduation, providing a strong core group to return for next year. The four seniors providing leadership this year were Jordan Sand, Meshell Syring, Jessica Ketterling and Lacey Markhart.

Seniors Jordan Sand, Meshell Syring, Kristy Quast, Jessica Ketterling, and Lacey Markhart step up to sing at the Christmas concert.

Band

'Hot, Hot, Hot'

A jazzy attitude permeated the music room during band this year. Kate Martin said, "They were upbeat and enthusiastic about playing songs such as 'Equinox' and 'Where the Black Hawk Soars' for KELOVE and spring concert."

Mark Huber, who received star ratings at regional and advanced to state competition in snare drum and typani, also was voted top male instrumentalist by his peers. The John Phillip Sousa award was presented to senior Jordan Sand. Junior Brian O'Neill advanced to state competition and was awarded a star rating with his French horn solo.

Band director Wayne Fiechtner recognized the senior band members at the spring concert for their four years of leadership and contributions to the band.

Drama Club Presents Just a Touch of 'Craziness'

Under the direction of Mr. Masset the drama club was able to re-enact the horror of Edgar Allen Poe's "The Infamous Soothing System of Professor Mailard." The cast knew that this play was a winner when they sold out for both the fifth annual dinner theater and the second annual sweets theater on December 1, 2000. The audience once again enjoyed the play and seemed to have a night full of entertainment including music, jokes, special effects, and most of all the excellent acting of the drama cast.

Professor Mailard (Robert Hernandez) tells the Hero (Will Kronberg) the truth about the insane asylum while the cast looks on.

HANDS ON EXPERIENCE

When talking about Algebra, someone might ask, "When am I ever going to use this?"

Students involved in DO, JETS, and yearbook staff know what these classes could do for them in the future.

"JETS is a good thing because students get a good grasp on how much work teachers actually do," stated Colette Kronberg.

I'm making a difference and see that there would be a lot more work that the teacher would have to do without a JET."

Diversified Occupations class offers students an opportunity to get on-the-job training in the field of work in which they are interested.

Yearbook staff members learn all aspects of yearbook production from selling advertisements to finance the yearbook to designing pages of the yearbook.

"Journalism is one of my favorite classes. It really helps me for the career I want to pursue in photography," said Jessinda Remmick.

Team Effort Produces Wins, 7-3 Record

"We didn't have any super stars this year, so we all had to play well to be successful," said Thor Sand in responding to how well the Cardinals did as a team this year. The team ended the season with a record of 7-3.

As far as the team being pumped up and ready to play every game, Blake Casey said, "We got pumped up pretty good. It gave us an edge over the competition." Thor Sand agreed with Blake's statement and summed up the season as "hard-hitting, fun."

One of the younger players who stuck out in the minds of Blake Casey, Steve Gans, and David Catlette was sophomore Matt Arnold because as they said, "He shows great determination to step up and play in the next couple of years."

As a spectator, Tiffany Schaefer said, "Just watching them during the games, they worked hard and never gave up."

With seniors Blake Casey, Justin Bobbe, and Jordan Sand making all-region team, and seniors Jerrod Lematta and Thor Sand and juniors Will Kronberg and David Catlette getting honorable mention on the all-region team, the season was an exciting adventure.

Coach Ulmer plans the defensive strategy to stop Barnes County North from gaining yards during the game in the Fargodome.

Junior David Catlette charges through the line of fans before the homecoming game. The Cards were victorious 30 - 0 against Fairmount.

guidance of head coach Chris Shaffer and assistant coach Kim Ringler. The lady Cardinals placed fourth in districts and were defeated by Gackle-Streeter in first round action at regionals.

Senior Megan Glynn, who averaged eighteen points and thirteen rebounds per game and is noted for her ability to block shots, was named to the All-State second team and the Lions all-star team.

Megan also was named District 5 player of the year, an honor voted on by district coaches. Senior teammate Sarah Kaiser joined her in being named to the all-district and all-conference teams.

The team's overall view of the season was that it was fun but not what they expected. They felt that some of their major strengths were quickness, ability to run GMA offenses, and having tall team members.

During a fastbreak, Sarah Kaiser bolts down the court leaving the Napoleon Imperials in the dust.

5 EHS Wrestlers to State

A thunderous attitude throughout wrestling season brought Thor Sand (152 lbs.), Greg Middlestead (160 lbs.), Jordan Sand (275 lbs.), Sam Sand (171 lbs.), and Justin Bobbe (189 lbs.) to advance to the state wrestling tournament in Bismarck.

Coach Schall said, "These five guys are the hardest workers in the state."

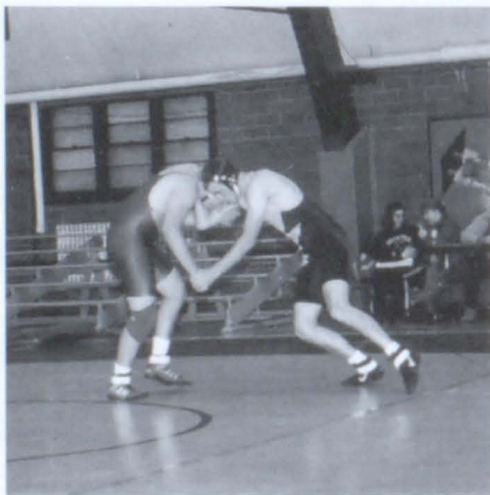

Junior wrestler Sam Sand stated, "This year was a lot of fun because we all helped each other out to get better."

Will Kronberg, a fan, says that he thinks that the team will do better next year and have a chance to win state.

Seven Qualifiers Head to State Track in Bismarck

A lot of hard work and determination was all it took to send seven qualifiers to state track this year. Helen Biggs, Kassendra Glynn, Katie Mahler, Sally Sand, Cyndal Orwig, Anne Kaiser and Seth Gans headed off to state to compete in high jump, 300 meter hurdles, 200 meter dash, 400, 800, and 1600 meter relays.

Helen was the only EHS trackster to earn points in high jump with a jump of 5'2", placing her in a tied position for sixth place.

The state track competition was held in Bismarck this year.

Glynn and Hardy Advance to State

The Cardinal golf teams had a great turnout of athletes for the 2001 season with fourteen guys and ten girls for a total of twenty-four participants. Both boys' and girls' teams had stiff competition for the six varsity spots.

Junior Kyle Glynn qualified for the state golf tournament for the second year in a row.

Sophomore Amy Hardy was the first Cardinal girl golfer to also qualify for the state tournament held in Southheart and Dickinson.

Overall, the golf team is young, and with no senior on the team, the Cardinal golf team will come back strong and ready to golf.
